INS IS CARING FOR COMMUNITY CHILDREN & ELDERLY

Since the beginning of the COVID-19 health pandemic, almost 100 children, who are enrolled in the INS aftercare programme, have been receiving food parcels each month.

"We are proud to fund the INS - their support of the elderly and children is very important," Sandisiwe Mntonintshi, Noupoort Wind Farm."

INS has also provided hygiene education and handed out sanitation packs to the elderly. The NGO is hoping to further support the elderly, particularly those who live alone, in the coming months.

"It is our role to support our community, which includes a feeding programme, hygiene education as well as sanitising hotspots in the community during busy times of the month."

Diniso Menzi, Chairman INS

SUPPORT FOR CLINIC

Noupoort Wind Farm is working with the District Department of Health, to fund Personal Protection Equipment (PPE) to help keep local frontline healthcare workers at EurekaVille Clinic, Nonqo Simon Zono Clinic and the Noupoort Community Health Care Centre safe.

The wind farm will also purchase medical equipment that can be used post COVID-19 to treat asthma and tuberculosis patients, within Noupoort community.

MASKS FOR SAFETY

Noupoort's Martha Ntombi Mosoane, best known as a local designer, is now working to produce personal hygiene masks.

The wind farm helped to get her successfully registered with the government's Central Supplier Database, at the start of the lockdown period, as well as providing other business support and regulatory specifications.
